
A watercolor painting of a marshy landscape. In the foreground, there are several trees with dense green foliage. The ground is a mix of light green and yellowish-green, suggesting grass and sand. In the background, a body of water stretches across the horizon under a pale blue sky. The overall style is soft and impressionistic.

*The world lies east:
How ample, the marsh and the sea and the sky!*

-Sidney Lanier, "The Marshes of Glynn" (1878)

The Low Country forms just north of Charleston, extending to the last barrier islands of the Georgia coast. For generations, tranquil oaks draped in Spanish Moss have canopied the ever-changing tides and vast marshes. Rich in history, culture, and tradition, the Low Country lures one to discover its small towns and islands, along with a luxe way of life.

Low Country Luxe designs and develops high-quality, luxury products that encapsulate the elegance and charm of this Low Country lifestyle. Our candles use only a sustainable biodegradable soy wax blend and the finest fragrances found. We hand-pour our candles in America and use recycled and recyclable material whenever possible. Low Country Luxe does extensive research and development for all our products to make sure the rich and exuberant smells, colors, charm and ambiance of the Low Country lifestyle are captured in everything we produce.

GIVING BACK

*Low Country Luxe is dedicated to giving back. This American spirit has served Low Country Luxe's philosophy and mission since its inception. For example, a portion of the proceeds from the Gullah candle go to the Penn Center in St. Helena Island, S.C. to help sustain the legacy of the Gullah people. Gullah is an African-American heritage and language spoken on the sea islands of the Low Country. Descendants from slaves of the West African coastal countries of Senegal and Sierra Leone, they have been here for generations and their unique culture remains largely intact. ## DARLIN

The name “Darlin” was inspired by our southern belle from South Carolina, Caroline Lumpkin Sozzi. “Darlin,” she says, “is the most versatile southern term of endearment as in... ‘My grandchild is so darlin’... or ‘Thank you honey, for that is just darlin.’” Darlin is a fusion of white lily swirls, marine freshness and a citrus blast, blended with berries, fig and orange blossoms, topped with jasmine.

New Orleans

Originally produced in 2008 as a “limited edition” scent, New Orleans has become so popular, we’ve decided to include it in our permanent collection. The graceful ironwork found on the New Orleans packaging was designed by New Orleans native artist, Alexa Pulitzer, who also is responsible for the creation of the Low Country Luxe logo. This scent was inspired by the countless courtyards of New Orleans that are filled with fragrant tea olive trees.

New Orleans is scented with tea olive tree, oak moss, soft musk, kumquat, tangerine and mandarin.

*H*ave you ever strolled beneath an arbor of jasmine, opened your window above an aromatic gardenia bush, or picked up a musky tobacco flower, and the fragrant aroma brought you to a stand-still to admire the natural beauty of its scent?

These unique scents of the South and the brilliance of nature from my own backyard inspired the foundation for Low Country Luxe. Since the beginning, my intent has been to create southern botanical scents that not only smell beautiful, but also transport you to another time and place through their fragrant essence and distinctive packaging.

With my love of scents, and an extensive background as a photo stylist and product development expert, I was able to launch our Signature Scents Collection in 2007 to rave reviews. The packaging of the Signature Collection, one of our more popular product lines, reflects the scenic vista of marshes, majestic oaks and Spanish moss. We simply took the splendor of nature and captured it in products everyone could enjoy.

Now a multi-product lifestyle company, Low Country Luxe has been able to assemble the brightest and most ingenious talent to create a breadth of Low Country Luxe scents and products. I am extremely fortunate to still have Jacinda Kessler and David W. Busch, who have been a part of my team since the conception of Low Country Luxe.

Known today as the “Southern Fragrance House,” I am humbled by the growth of my company and am thrilled by our partnership with DPM, who has recently licensed Low Country Luxe. This unification will enable us to distribute worldwide, and allow me to focus on my true passion; designing luxurious scents and packaging. Thank you very much for purchasing our products and we look forward to producing and sharing many more with you this coming year.

Warmest Wishes,

Natalie Evans
